ON THE DEATH OF A FRIEND.

BY PITZ GREINE HALLECK.

He hath been tootened as brave men mourn wept as nations weep their cherished dead,

With bitter, but proud tests; o'r his head. The eternal flowers whose root is in his grave, The flowers of Fame, are beautiful and green; And by his groves side pilgrim feet have been; And blessing pare as near to martyrs give, Have there been breathed by those he died to sate. Pride of his country's banded chivalry,

His time their hope, his name their battle cry; He lived as mothers wish their sons to live, He died as fathers wish their sons to die. If on the grief-worn check the bues of bliss,

Which fade when all we love is in the tomb, Could ever know on earth a second bloom, The memory of a gallant death like his Would call them into being ; but the few, Who as their friend, their brother, or their son, His kind warm heart and gentle spirit knew, Had long lived, hoped, and feared for him alone; His voice their morning music, and his eye The only starlight of their evening sky, Till even the sum of imppiness seemed dim; And life's best joys were surrows but with him; And when, the burning ballet in his breast, He dropped, like summer fruit from off the bough,

There was one heart that knew and loved him It was a mother's-and is broken now.

GENERAL M'CUNN TO CAPTAIN JONES, Brigade Headquarters, wav Alex., Va., \

August 13, 1861. To Captain Jones, First Virginia Cavalry Dear Sir-I am perhaps overstepping military custom and usages in thus communicating with you. The holy mission in which I am engaged is my only apology.— what may be called pretty attention. Col. Cameron was a warm personal friend of mine, and for the sake of his family and to learn the spot where his bones were laid 1 would do anything in honor and fairness, I do not wish you to compromise yourself in the slightest degree, or to do anything that a gallant soldier would not deem it his duty to perform. I do not want any favor that your generous Colonel (Stewart) would not grant at once. I simply ask you the great favor to mark the spot where a brave man has fallen, thus to enable his bereaved family to uncover, at the end of this unnatural strife, the ashes of a fond and devoted father, of a good and brave man. the laws, the only supreme authority re cognized, but through its passions, which laws were meant to restrain as dangerous to good government. The fundamental principle of Republican government is that the majority shall rule, and the expression of the will of that majority is the law created by the people. Mob law sets aside the established law of the people, to reach a remedy not sanctioned by them. Mob law, therefore, is the attempt of the minority to overpower the majority by force, and it is as revolutionary in its character as the rebelattempt to overthrow the anthority of the government. We are entering upon a war to establish the authority of the violated laws, and it is therefore an inconsistency, as well as a shameful precedent, for citizens of the loyal States to adopt the same violent ber of men and boys resolved upon burn- and anarchial practices of the rebels, which in one case can be no more justifiable than
